

Friendship

Friendship is nothing without trust

There are a lot of different people

So beautiful and caring-

It's like a mother caring for a baby

They will stick up for each other like brother and sister

It can be the light to your dark

Friendship can be the best thing in the world.

So, then why?

Why do people leave when someone better comes along?

And you're left all by yourself

Hopeless, lost and sad...

You think to yourself, "Have I done something wrong?"

So you are just left alone.

Soon that person is going to miss you.

But by that time you have moved on.

So why give them another chance?

Are you scared to be hurt again?

Leave the ones that make you upset

Hopeless, lost and sad.

Move on.

Meet new people

And live a happy life.

For me that is friendship.

And friendship is nothing...

Without trust.
